to discover the machine for I often have great difficulty in getting fitted properly. My foot is short and fat and most of the shoe nowdays have long narrow vamp. They feel alright when I try them on but after I've been walking in them for awhile I'm uncomfortable. But never again! I'll use this machine and so what I'm buying. Hahn seems to have shoes to fit every foot; I never saw anything like it, and they're all good looking, too.

There has been more attention given in the past few years by the shoe merchants of the country to shoe fitting and it has almost become an art to be able to fit a shoe properly.

In fact a great many of the larger stores have conducted fitting classes and have had lectures on the anatomy of the foot to educate the shoe fitters with the peculiar construction of the foot and with the various types of feet.

It is recognized by medical authorities that no two feet are alike in shape and it is therefore, the aim of the shoe fitter to be able to recognize the type of foot instantaneously so that he may be able to take the shape of the foot for the shoe that is to be fitted.

There are three general types of feet as recognized by the medical authorities, classed as the inflame, the outflame and the straight flare and to enable the shoe man to be sure that he has made no mistake there has been recently invented an X-ray foot-scope machine that has been installed by William Hahn and Company, Inc., in its store at 1440 K Street, N. W. in its workings. That's the name of the machine—couldn't think of it at first. It is different from the X-ray machine as used by physicians or X-ray specialists in that it does not take a photograph, but by simply placing the feet in an aperture the operator is able to show the person standing on the machine the foot and the exact fit of the shoe as every bone in the foot is visible to the eye, also showing how the contour of the shoe meets with the contour of the foot and in that way it is easy to detect the proper shape of the shoe that is fitted and also whether the shoe is wide enough or long enough.

It is, therefore, easy to see that in using this system in fitting a great many people are saved the annoying foot troubles. It has been recognized that a shoe that crowds or pinches the toes or is too narrow will often cause such troubles as bunions, ingrowing nails and have even caused flat feet and fallen arches. It is therefore, can be readily seen how invaluable such a machine is in its service to humanity in properly taking care of the foot. And oh! the discomfort it saves!

SPRING SONG OF THE SOUL

By JOSEPH D. KAUFMAN.

'TIS the break of an April morn'—The dim shadows of night—false prophet of ever-to-be-defeated Darkness—are slowly, imperceptibly melting into Daylight—symbol not alone of hope—Karl of absolute truth—the God's man—the eternally recurring victory of Life over Death. As the first, faint gleam of the Light of Day awakens the glad song of reawakening—a million-fold in it is intensified in the beauty of the coming of Spring—as it gives a silent and withal loving rebuke to the consciousness not yet blessed and glorified with that blossom that knows no price—the Soul Knowledge of the supremacy of Good.

The first faint blush of morn', the balmy, healing caress of the life-bearing Spring breeze—kissing the buds, the trees, the grass—arouses it kisses and wakes into the joy of New being all of God's wondrous works—whisperers to Man the Biggest thing of life—The all conquering, reclaiming, rejuvenating work of Love.

If we labor but for material attainment—and grasp not the glory of accomplishment—the Heavenly rest of Creative endeavor—then are we still in the Darkness, the Winter of Life. When we know by the joy of our souls—that we are directors of our own destiny—with no "overlord" of dictation, save that Illuminating "task master" (the Law of Love) then, and then only does our Break of Day become fraught with meaning.

Learn to know "the Law"—for all constructive living is by way of Law. Our disorders, our miseries, our bewilderments, our languish at "this" and at "that," have no parentage in necessity. None compels—rather ought we to know (and we all will, some sooner, some later, time in naught in the Cosmic Journey) that but to grasp this simple, subtle all inclusive life current, leads us out of our manifold violations and illegitimately imposed penalties into that Crystal Path of Eternal and Infinite unfoldment.

Man may attain wealth and rest not—man may attain knowledge and it satisfies not—man may attain millions of things, facts, and the like—but he will never attain the Law of Life, the Law of Love, the Law of God, the Law of God—and he will know a peace, a tranquility, that passes all understanding. Then will he begin to know—the Spring, the Daylight of Life—and 'twill be ever recurrent—for as his Law is infinite—his awakening knows no end.

"And how," you ask, "may I attain this Himalayan of soul height?" Carry as your ever active prayer, your every availing key to Life—Love. Shower it about you—the more you throw off the more you engender. It is the Law of Love, the Law of God, the Law of God—and he will know a peace, a tranquility, that passes all understanding. Then will he begin to know—the Spring, the Daylight of Life—and 'twill be ever recurrent—for as his Law is infinite—his awakening knows no end.

We only attain and retain faculties as we exercise them—We walk and see perfectly on our feet as we exercise them and use them by degree—aye—all down the line of attainments of body and mind—"control" has replaced "rulerless endeavor" by the law of the universe, and deep down, below our turmoil, all will be found—Rest.

As Man attains, by law, to perfection, step by step; so may we know that our Soul's Release—our Spring—our Daylight of Life—needs but the gentle watering of the Raindrops of our Consolation to Love.

MADAME CURIE QUOTA HERE IS RAISED.

Kipling's Colonel's Lady and Maggie O'Grady, figuratively joined hands last Monday afternoon at Mrs. Marshall Field's home, 2600 Sixteenth street, northwest, at a gathering of women from all walks of life. The occasion was a meeting to raise $5,000 as this city's quota of the $100,000 that the women of America are raising to purchase a gram of radium for Mme. Curie, the famous French scientist.
